

LINDSEY N. OLIVER.

Mr. Lindsey N. Oliver is the President of the Hyannis Yacht Club, whose new and commodious club house is to be dedicated to-morrow. Mr. Oliver occupies one of the finest residences in Hyannis, which he built a few years ago, on Main street near Sea street. He is a jovial, whole-souled gentleman and is universally respected and liked by a very large circle of acquaintances. He spent much of his time here in early manhood—such time as he could spare from his business. Ardently fond of boating, fishing and gunning, there was no place that afforded him so much pleasure as Hyannis on old Cape Cod. With his frequent visits here it was not strange that he formed many acquaintances and in due time he selected a Cape Cod bride to enjoy life's journey with him. After his marriage he resided in Boston and vicinity for several years, returning to Hyannis each summer, occupying a cosy place on Sea street. His generous spirit soon becoming hampered with his surroundings he bought a large lot on Main street and erected the fine place which he now occupies, where he is constantly surrounded with friends from the city.

Mr. Oliver several years ago purchased a large tract of land now known as Railway Bluffs on Lewis Bay, and in company with Mr. Geo. B. Lewis last winter erected two of the largest and best located cottages on the Bay shore. He expects to develop this property into a popular summer place, and other cottages will probably be put up in the near future. He is a firm believer in the success of Hyannis and never tires of describing the beauties of the place.
